

International Cosmetics Brand – UAE Market Entry & GTM

Market Assessment, Consumer Segmentation & Channel Strategy

Problem Statement

- An international cosmetics brand sought to enter the competitive UAE beauty market.
- It needed to identify priority consumer segments, product categories and use occasions.
- Required assessment of competitive positioning, pricing and channel dynamics.
- Needed a scalable GTM model balancing premium brand positioning with market penetration.

Solution

Developed a data-led, Dubai-first GTM model using the MCCCCI* framework

- Market Assessment: Evaluated UAE cosmetics market attractiveness, category trends and growth opportunities.
- Consumer Segmentation: Identified priority consumer cohorts based on beauty needs, preferences and willingness to pay.
- Competitive Benchmarking: Assessed leading international and regional brands across portfolio, pricing, positioning and promotions.
- Channel Strategy: Evaluated e-commerce, modern trade, specialty beauty and distributor-led channels.
- GTM Design: Developed a phased UAE launch strategy covering target emirates, channels, portfolio and brand positioning.

Output

- Identified priority cosmetics categories and consumer segments for launch.
- Defined differentiated brand positioning and pricing architecture.
- Recommended an omnichannel GTM model combining digital and offline channels.
- Prioritized Dubai and other high-potential UAE markets for phased rollout.
- Created a replicable GTM playbook for subsequent regional expansion.

Impact and Results

- Enabled a data-led UAE market-entry strategy.
- Reduced launch risk through consumer- and competitor-validated decisions.
- Established a clear product-price-channel-consumer fit.
- Created a structured pathway from initial UAE launch to regional scale-up.
- Provided a practical roadmap for commercial launch and channel expansion.

Indian Hair Care Brand – UAE & Bahrain Market Expansion

Market Expansion, Channel Penetration & Consumer Growth Strategy

Problem Statement

- An established Indian hair-care brand sought to strengthen its presence in the UAE and Bahrain, where sales remained concentrated among select Indian/ethnic consumer segments and channels
- It aimed to expand beyond the traditional customer base and capture mainstream GCC beauty demand, focusing on priority products, consumer segments and retail channels.
- Needed a scalable approach to improve distribution, visibility and sales across both markets.

Solution

Developed a targeted GCC expansion strategy focused on:

- Market Assessment: Evaluated UAE and Bahrain hair-care markets, category dynamics and growth opportunities.
- Consumer Intelligence: Identified high-potential consumer segments and hair-care needs.
- Competitive Benchmarking: Assessed Indian, regional and international brands across products, pricing, positioning and distribution.
- Channel Strategy: Prioritized modern trade, beauty retail, pharmacies, e-commerce and traditional trade based on market potential.
- Portfolio Optimization: Identified hero products and priority SKUs for expansion.
- Market Expansion: Developed country-specific plans for UAE and Bahrain, including distributor, channel and activation priorities.

Output

- Identified priority consumer segments and product categories for expansion.
- Developed a UAE & Bahrain channel prioritization framework.
- Defined a differentiated product, pricing and positioning strategy.
- Recommended an omnichannel distribution model to broaden market reach.
- Developed a phased roadmap to transition from ethnic-led to mainstream GCC reach.

Impact and Results

- Enabled the brand to increase distribution and visibility across UAE and Bahrain.
- Expanded reach beyond traditional Indian / ethnic retail channels.
- Improved channel and SKU-level prioritization for market investment.
- Established a structured approach to mainstream consumer acquisition.
- Created a replicable GCC expansion playbook for further regional growth.
